

Classified Income Tax Killed By Senate Republicans

Straight Party Vote Defeats Leader's Plan

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4 (AP)—Senate Republicans voted to the man tonight to squelch Gov. Leader's proposal for a 411 million dollar classified income tax.

The roll call vote was 23-26 as the GOP exercised its hairline majority to snuff the life out of the governor's plan to balance his proposed $1,800,000,000 budget for the current biennium.

Another Roll
Almost immediately, Republicans scheduled another roll call vote for tomorrow to make certain Democrats cannot revive the levy any more in the 1955 Legislature.

Tempers flared as Democrats, in a last-ditch attempt to save the tax, described the Republican action as "a lynching party."

At one point, Sen. John H. Dent, Senate Democratic floor leader, sent a length of rope across the aisle to his Republican counterpart, Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, to help in what he termed the lynching.

Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (R—Dauphin), Senate president pro tempore, took to the floor in his first major speech in 14 years in the Senate to accuse the governor of "a deliberate double-cross."

Warmed Of Conduct
The drama-packed session saw warning after warning by Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman, Senate president, to senators who resorted to personal attacks on other lawmakers in violation of the rules.

But the Republican majority remained united. The slow drone of the roll call came shortly after 8:30 p.m. (EDT). It followed straight party lines. The only absentee was Sen. Miles R. Derk (D—Lycoming), recuperating from a heart attack.

Dent didn't resort to the usual parliamentary maneuver for seeking reconsideration of a defeated bill — changing two votes to be with the prevailing side.

He said it would be "a futile and embarrassing" move in view of the declared intention of the Republicans to vote down any such reconsideration.

Asks For Votes
Dent splurged the Democratic debate seeking Republican support for the tax, asking Taylor and Mahany for their votes.

"I call upon you to give us two votes and we'll take the responsibility," he said, "I'll go into your district and let the people shoot me—not you."

The Democratic leader then conceded his arguments to change the Republican opposition were futile and added:

"Gov. Leader could come before the Senate with any tax at all and you Republicans would say it would be unfair and unconstitutional."

Taylor argued that the income levy would be the "biggest and most unfair tax" ever offered to the state.

Assume Responsibility
"We as Republicans gladly assume the responsibility for the defeat of this bill," he said, "... The Democrats must be forever judged by the fact that they proposed it and went to lengths, never before attempted, to ram it down the throats of the people."

Overshadowed by the tax debate was the Senate's action in pushing the governor's proposal for new boxing code in position for a final vote on Monday. The governor, during the day extended the boxing suspension indefinitely beyond Aug. 8.

Before the roll call on the income levy Republican and Democratic legislative leaders met with the governor in an attempt to lay preliminary plans for a tax compromise.

Republicans made it clear to Leader that nothing he could say could have prevented defeat of the income levy. The governor was expected to call in the conferees for another session in the next 10 days.

Adjourned Until Aug. 29
As the House adjourned until Aug. 29, the Senate went ahead with plans to take a recess until the same date. They'll come back here Monday for a brief session and then leave town.

Before the House went home, Rep. J. P. Moran (D—Allegheny) introduced a bill calling for a 2 per cent mercantile tax on gross receipts of business.

For Third Man
In Brink Robbery

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—Police spread to Canada tonight in their search for the last of three gunmen foiled in a bold, bullet-studded attempt to rob Brink's Armored Car Service of nearly half a million dollars.

Two of the masked bandits were collared by police last night shortly after the three had staged the holdup in Brink's garage here and wounded a company guard with machinegun fire.

The speedy police action stemmed from an alarm sounded by the wounded guard, Eugene Ciohesky, 27.

Bulganin Rejects Eisenhower's Proposal For Exchange Of Military Blueprints, Air Inspection Of Establishments

MOSCOW, Aug. 4 (AP)—Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin today dismissed as unworkable President Eisenhower's dramatic proposal for mutual air inspection of military establishments and exchange of military blueprints.

He said Soviet proposals for disarmament and nuclear weapon control were more realistic.

The 1,500 deputies of the U.S.S.R.'s Supreme Soviet (Parliament) laughed when Bulganin said at Eisenhower's proposal would be ineffective because both countries had vast areas in which anything could be hidden.

In the Great Hall of the Kremlin Palace, reporting to a special Supreme Soviet session on the Geneva summit conference.

He said all four powers—Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States—displayed at Geneva a desire to put an end to the cold war.

But he said the arms race still was going on, "especially that of atomic weapons."

As Bulganin spoke, the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington announced the Russians had resumed testing nuclear weapons within the past few days, possibly "the beginning of a new test series."

The most recent previous detection of Soviet atomic tests was Oct. 26, 1954.

Ease Fear Of War
At Geneva, President Eisenhower proposed on July 21 an exchange of "a complete blueprint of military establishments" to ease the fear of war, adding he was advancing the plan to convince everyone of "the great sincerity" of the United States in approaching the problems of world tension.

The Russians made no public reply to the President at Geneva. This was the way Bulganin spoke of the Eisenhower plan today.

"Paying tribute to the desire embodied in this proposal to find a solution to a complicated problem like this one of international control, one cannot but say at the same time the real effect of such measures would not be considerable. In unofficial talks with the leaders of the U. S. government we stated frankly that aerial photography cannot provide the expected results because our two countries comprise vast areas on which, if it were desired one could hide anything one wanted to. The fact should also be taken into consideration that the proposed plan touches only the territories of the two countries concerned, leaving aside the armed forces and military structures situated on territories of other states."

"We consider as more realistic and more effective those proposals for setting up international control which were put forward by the Soviet government on May 10."

That plan, repeated by Bulganin at the summit conference, was presented to the London meeting of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee. It calls for withdrawal of the bulk of foreign forces from both East and West Germany, prohibition of nuclear weapons, and a system of controls at key ports and transportation centers to guard against violations. The United States wants foolproof inspection, but the Soviet Union has shied away from that, and has held out for supervision of nuclear disarmament in the U. N. Security Council, where the big powers have a veto.

Explosions Heard
Eyewitnesses at the reservation's housing area, where some 5,000 persons live, told how the stricken plane roared overhead, 200 to 500 feet above the ground.

"At first we thought the pilot would make it," Beverly Streeter, a Wac private from Asbury Park, N. J., said.

"Then we heard muffled explosions. Parts seemed to be dropping from the plane. We lost sight of it after that."

The 27 passengers and three crewmen included eight women, two children and a Catholic priest, Rev. George L. Krock, 47, who recently returned from Guatemala. He taught at a seminary in Clark's Summit until 1950.

Almost Near Goal
The spot where the plane crashed was just three-fourths of a mile short of the post landing field it was trying to reach. But the terrain was so rugged, bulldozers did not succeed in slashing a temporary road to the spot until two hours later.

Capt. Bracey fixed the time of the crash at 12:30 p.m. CST. The bulldozers finished cutting an access road shortly before 4 p.m.

Between 150 and 200 soldiers were still fighting the forest fire late today.

Some of the bodies were thrown some distance from the wrecked plane and escaped the flames, Maj. Warren Pauley, aviation officer at the fort, reported.

No Agreement
For Release
Of Civilians

GENEVA, Aug. 4 (AP)—The United States and Communist China failed today to come up with an agreement for release of 40 Americans held behind the Bamboo Curtain.

Their envoys broke off supersecret talks until Monday to get new instructions from Washington and Peking.

Neither U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson nor Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan gave any hint after their longest session whether they made headway or were deadlocked. They were believed to have hit a snag over several thousand Chinese students living in the United States for whom the Chinese ask repatriation in exchange for the 40 American civilians. The Chinese claim the students are being blocked from returning home. The United States insists all are free to leave.

Reject Proposal
There was an unofficial report that Johnson turned down a Chinese proposal for a neutral third country to check on whether the students are being held against their will. The proposal reportedly was advanced by Wang at Tuesday's meeting as a face-saving formula for the Chinese.

Coffee Shortage
Not Anticipated

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—No shortage of coffee exists or is anticipated as the result of reported frost damage to part of Brazil's coffee crop.

John F. McKiernan, president of the National Coffee Assn., said today.

"Fortunately for the American consumer," McKiernan said, "the situation this year is very different from that of 1953, when Brazilian coffee production was affected by frost damage to its coffee trees. In the past two years, world coffee production has been materially increased, resulting in the creation of surplus stocks which are now fully adequate to make up for the loss in production caused by the recent cold weather in Brazil."

SPOKANE, Aug. 4 (AP)—"A nudist wife is just like any other wife about clothes. She wants a mink coat just as much as any other woman. Women sit around in nudist camps and discuss their wardrobes all the time."

These revelations of life in a nudist camp came from Reed Suplee, Palmetton, Pa., president of the American Sunbathing Assn., before the group's national convention opened at a lake north of here today.

91 Degrees High Reading In Borough

TEMPERATURES dipped to 91 degrees yesterday in Stroudsburg. It was the first real break in the heat wave in three days.

The high reading was recorded at about 4 p.m. The low for the 24-hour period was 66 degrees early yesterday morning. At 8 a.m. it was 71 degrees and at 11 last night it was 75.

83.5 At Mount Pocono
In Mount Pocono the high was 83.5 degrees, according to observer Harry Greene. The low in that borough was 70 degrees. Relative humidity high for the day was 42 percent.

Mount Pocono also had "about 20 drops of rain" during the day, Greene said. It was a light shower, but at least it was an indication that there was some rain somewhere in those clouds that floated past all day, the weather observer said.

Commends Congress
On domestic affairs, Eisenhower described the record of the just-adjourned Democratic Congress as commendable in foreign affairs. But he said the session failed to act on at least four measures he regards as vital to the nation's welfare.

He said he does not plan at the moment to call a special session later this year to act on his highway program, No. 1 among his measures Congress shelved. But he added that he is not ruling out the possibility.

Eisenhower named school construction, health and water resources programs as the other three vital measures.

As to his own future political plans:

Not A Prophet
He said he would have no excuse to defer a decision on the question of seeking a second term if he were an infallible prophet on world and domestic conditions and on the state of his own health, as these things might develop in the next year.

But he does not have that gift of prophecy, he said, and so he will continue to leave the question in abeyance.

His remarks stemmed from an account given by Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) of what the President told a group of Ohio Republicans at a White House meeting yesterday.

Water was being supplied to the hospital tonight from a nearby pond. It was pumped into hospital tanks through equipment supplied by the Newton fire department.

The pond water contained mud and silt, hospital Supt. Paul E. Widener said, and was being used for nondrinking purposes only. Drinking water was being supplied from deep wells of the nearby Ideal Dairy Farm, one of the state's big milk producers.

The hospital, which has 85 patients, was without water earlier in the day after pressure failed due to a water shortage.

Watching the skyline hardest of all probably were the state's farmers, whose crops were withering on the vine.

Freed Fliers Reach Manila

MANILA, Friday, Aug. 5 (AP)—Eleven jubilant U.S. airmen—released from 2½ years in Red China's prisons—reached here yesterday after denying Communist "spy" charges and telling of ordeals of questioning.

Well-fed on steaks since their release at the British colony of Hong Kong yesterday afternoon, they rested today in an air-conditioned hospital at Clark Field, just north of Manila.

They leave later today for Tokyo on the next leg of their long-awaited journey home and a reunion with relatives. They will have a news conference in Tokyo Saturday.

Baumer on Crutches
The men, although lean, were pronounced "in fairly good health." They told of better food and treatment just before their release Sunday from a Peiping prison—a release that came as a complete surprise to them.

Maj. William H. Baumer, Lewisburg, Pa., was on crutches. His left leg was wounded when the airmen's B29 was shot down over North Korea Jan. 12, 1953. The leg also was badly frostbitten.

The men were not permitted to talk to newsmen at Clark Field, but they told their stories briefly at a news conference in Hong Kong during which they spoke bitterly of their trial.

Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., Silver Springs, Md., declared the B29 was shot down by MIG jet fighters while still 35 or 40 miles from Red China's frontier. One basis of the 4-to-16-year sentences meted out to them was that they "violated" Red China's air.

Fire Shears Off One Wing During Flight

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo., Aug. 4 (AP)—A flaming American Airlines plane, one wing sheared off by fire and seconds away from an Army airfield, crashed on this military reservation today, killing all 30 persons aboard.

Commission Hires Chicago Firm To Complete System

MONROE COUNTY Commissioners this week ousted John B. Aicher as head of the program to set up a new assessment system for the county.

Commissioners simultaneously announced that they are engaging a Chicago firm to handle the job.

Named to take over the program in a resolution passed by commissioners was the firm of J. L. Jacobs and Co., appraisers and engineers, Chicago. Effective date of the contract with the Jacobs Co. is immediate.

According to terms of a contract signed by Jacobs representatives and the three county commissioners the cost of completing the reassessment program will be $97,800.

Minutes of the commission meeting show that Aicher was called in to the meeting and "informed of the board's action" in hiring the Jacobs firm. Aicher was told that the "entire operation" of the program is now under the supervision of the Jacobs Co.

Aug. 15 Last Day
Official minutes of the meeting show that Aicher was informed that he and all employees in his office "will remain on the county payroll until Aug. 15."

After that date the Jacobs Co. may hire them if they meet the firm's requirements, the minutes show Aicher was told.

Under terms of the contract drawn up by commission solicitor James Kison, the J. L. Jacobs Co. organization has until June 1, 1956, to complete tax maps and reappraisal of all taxable real property in Monroe County.

As guarantee that the Chicago firm will complete the job by the deadline date, the county specifies that no contract may be considered binding until two bonds have been posted each in the amount of $97,800.

Two Bonds
The two bonds are a performance bond and a labor and material bond. Each must be accompanied by property surety which the Board of Assessments and Revision of Taxes (commissioners) considers satisfactory.

Commissioners did not require a performance bond or labor and material bond from Aicher. He has been employed, without a job contract, on salary from the county.

The text of the resolution introduced by W. Adolph Rake and seconded by Amzi Altomose, commissioners, at this week's meeting is as follows:

"Resolved, that the Board of County Commissioners of Monroe County, constituting the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes, enter into a contract with J. L. Jacobs and Co., Chicago, Ill., to furnish all necessary services to the county . . . for completion of the tax maps, for furnishing property record cards, for furnishing property owner's index and for revaluation of each parcel (Please turn to Page 6)

Investigation
Resolved By Resignation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee announced today that the resignation of Secretary of the Air Force Talbott has "satisfactorily resolved" its inquiry into his outside business interests.

Talbott gave his resignation to President Eisenhower Monday, writing "I would not in any circumstances wish to be a source of embarrassment to you, or to your splendid administration."

In accepting it, the President praised Talbott's work as civilian chief of the air force but said, "Your decision was the right one."

The Senate investigation brought out that Talbott had retained a partnership in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., New York efficiency experts, and had drawn more than $122,000 as his share of the firm's profits during the 2½ years he was in the Pentagon.

Talbott acknowledged writing letters on Air Force Stationery to prospective clients of Mulligan & Co. Some of the firm's clients have contracts with the Air Force.

The day's high temperature was 96 just before 3 p.m. It was 92 about 4 p.m. in the city just before the storms. A brief shower, followed by a short but heavy downpour, brought the mercury down to 71 about 5 p.m.

The Russians accepted the Bonn government's suggestion that the precise questions to be discussed should be the subject of a preliminary exchange of opinions in Paris between Soviet Ambassador to France Sergei Vinogradov and West German Ambassador Voltrath von Maltzan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (P)—Asst. Atty. Gen. Stanley N. Barnes said today the government will attempt to disqualify John Foster Dulles' old law firm from defending oil companies against a 100-million-dollar government suit. The suit alleges overcharges on foreign oil shipments.

Barnes told the House Antitrust subcommittee the government will seek to disqualify the New York firm of Sullivan and Cromwell on the contention that Garfield Horn, a firm attorney, acquired specialized knowledge of the case as a government official.

Barnes said the government has "insisted" on the firm's withdrawal from the case, but that yesterday Sullivan and Cromwell filed a motion in the New York courts to qualify as counsel for Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey and Esso

For you, there is interesting and valuable information in the paragraphs which follow.

In the first place, there is no reason why anyone should ever put off ordering a Cadillac—once the decision for ownership has been made. For a Cadillac represents one of the soundest and most practical investments in the automotive world.

You can become the owner of a new 1955 Cadillac for little more than you would pay for many so-called medium-price cars—often within a very few dollars.

And this is only half the picture, insofar as cost is concerned. For when the time comes to sell your Cadillac, you will find that the car has held its value far beyond anything you could logically expect.

Authoritative price figures, based on year-after-year studies, reveal that a Cadillac will return its owner a larger share of his original investment than any other motor car built in the land.

And then consider Cadillac's economy of operation and upkeep.

The car will run as far on a gallon of gasoline as most standard automobiles—and it is so soundly built and so soundly engineered that it is all but free from any save the most routine service requirements.

And here is the most interesting news of all: If you act quickly, the chances are that you can get early delivery of a 1955 Cadillac!

True, we have a backlog of Cadillac orders—but many of these are for future delivery or for special combinations not now available.

So—if you have thought of owning a Cadillac—come in now. Because of our low used car inventory, we are in an excellent position to make you a liberal allowance on your present car—and, as we said, you can probably get your new car much sooner than you have believed possible.

We have a Cadillac waiting to give you the most thrilling demonstration of your life. Why not come in today?

East Borough Council Names Five Men To Planning Group

Advisory Commission Is Set Up

EAST STROUDSBURG Council this week selected a five-member Borough Planning Commission.

The commission will serve in an unofficial, advisory capacity in making recommendations or conducting studies for community betterment.

Named to the commission were the following: Clifford L. Cramer, 125 Berwick Heights Road; James Fisher, 457 N. Courtland St.; Ralph O. Burrows, 44 N. Green St.; Lester Abeloff, 245 Washington St., and Dr. Elwood Field, 171 Washington St.

Prompted By Exchange Club
The commission is actually an outgrowth of a lengthy series of civic studies conducted by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club. This series undertaken and completed by various sub-committees named by the club, was designed to point the way toward better handling of community problems.

Council first indicated three months ago that it would set up a committee with borough planning as its sole aim. When council decided to do so, it may call upon the commission to conduct a special study of some phase of community life with an eye toward improvement of the entire borough, a council spokesman said last night.

3,000-Acre Forest Fire Has Burned Two Full Weeks

THE EFFORT MOUNTAIN fire winds up its second week today. So far the fire has burned off more than 3,000 acres of timber and non-protected land.

District Forester E. C. Pyle said last night the fire has crept and raged through about 2,500 acres of non-protected land. Another 800 or more acres of protected forest land has been burned off, he said.

The fire—which actually began as three separate blazes—was deliberately set on Friday, July 22 between 1 and 2 p. m. Pyle issued an offer for a $500 reward for information on the person or persons who ignited the blaze at that time.

This week the reward offer rose to $700 when a West End resident added $200 to it from his own pocket, Pyle said. So far no information has been received.

Backfires Set
Part of the acreage destroyed by flames on Effort Mountain has been accounted for by backfires set by rangers, wardens and volunteers to prevent further spread of the larger fire itself to timberland in the area.

Bulldozers called into play on the mountaintop and in the area of the Dilldown Watershed and Pimple Hill have helped hold the fire down. But new blazes have broken out consistently a few hundred yards away from the large fire during last week's high winds and early this week.

Pyle said last night that no other fires of any consequence were reported during the day. Two "dump fires" were put out in the Porters Lake and Lake Minisink areas, he said. Firemen, meanwhile, kept busy during the day yesterday "mopping up" in the area of Pine Flats near Porters Lake where a hunting cabin burned down Wednesday night.

Two "false alarms" turned up early in the day yesterday, Pyle said. These occurred in the Fern Ridge section when residents reported seeing a new outbreak of fire in two locations.

Investigation, however, proved that the fires were actually nothing but concentrations of smoke from the large fire burning in the region, Pyle said.

Meyner Urges Restriction On Bridge Agency

TRENTON, N.J., Aug. 4 (AP)—Gov. Meyner today urged adoption of a bill which would require the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission to secure legislative consent from New Jersey and Pennsylvania before undertaking new projects.

Meyner told a news conference he wanted the bill introduced in the New Jersey Legislature Monday. He said he would ask legislative leaders to suggest a sponsor.

The measure also would give the governors of the two states veto power over the minutes of the commission.

Leader Sympathetic
"I think I can safely say Gov. Leader of Pennsylvania is sympathetic to this legislation. He probably will have the bill introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature."

The commission operates 19 bridges across the Delaware River between the Philadelphia County lines and the New York state border. Five of the bridges charge tolls for vehicles, two are free passenger bridges, and 12 are free vehicular bridges.

Meyner said many residents of the Delaware Valley were "concerned" over the commission's power to build new toll bridges and shut down existing free bridges.

Utah Food Budget Experiment May Be Debated, But Food Costs Are Steady

There will be some arguing with the statistics in a recent announcement of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It said, quoting a test made at the Utah Experiment Station, that a couple can eat well on $8.56 a week.

Housewives can be heard protesting that no two persons in THEIR households could get along for a week on 66 cents' worth of meat, fish and poultry, as did the young couple who made the Utah experiment.

There will be statements that the 16 cents spent for citrus fruits and tomatoes would scarcely buy one tomato when prices are high. Still, such experiments are interesting, and show what can be done with careful planning. They're also a reminder that food price inflation isn't the bugaboo that it was. Food prices in June were a shade higher than in May, but generally speaking these prices have held steady or declined in the past two years.

That has happened despite continuing increases in wages and Government buying of certain crops to keep prices up.

It's a development that would rate big black headlines if it had happened suddenly.

Severe Methods Of Control Is Answer For Sudden Wave Of Court Room Murders

The shocking outbreak of gunfire in Carlisle's Cumberland County courthouse Wednesday afternoon, resulting in the death of a young lawyer and the wounding of Judge Garber and two others, is the second such demonstration of contempt for authority to be recorded in Pennsylvania in the past 18 months.

In both cases the shooting occurred when a defendant in a non-support case decided to take the law into his own hands, and in both cases death resulted.

During a court session in Warren County in January, 1954, Judge Allison D. Wade was shot and killed after he had handed down an order involving non-support.

His assailant, convicted of the judge's murder, is still awaiting execution after a series of appeals.

Early this week a Newville R.D. man pulled a gun from his pocket after Judge Garber had ordered him to pay $50 monthly for the support of his wife, and in a few minutes the Cumberland jurist, the Newville man's wife, and her two attorneys were shot: One attorney, youthful John D. Falter, died within the hour.

This dramatic repetition of the earlier gunfire in a courtroom of the Commonwealth points up again the necessity for a stricter policing of characters hailed before the bench.

Following the 1954 slaying, the bench and bar reiterated their demands for a closer surveillance of prisoners, including searching them for weapons, but this apparently has not followed in Carlisle and doubtless was not observed in the majority of courtrooms.

Challenge to constituted authority as it is, the situation must be met by more severe methods of control.

Free Market In Villains Best Thing That Could Happen Now In Hollywood Movies

I see that those who are supposed to know and understand the personalities in our society known as "film tycoons," feel that the era of good-will may do them no good. Personally, I have never met a "film tycoon" although I have a greater or lesser acquaintance with such men as Louis B. Mayer, Sydney Skouras, Harry Cohn and perhaps half a hundred more or less of the men who have been successful in management of the motion picture industry. But what a "film tycoon" is, I do not know.

According to my colleague Dorothy Kilgallen, these persons were paying great attention to the "Summit Talks" at Geneva. So was most of the world, at the time of the conferences, and it is not surprising that the citizens of the United States who lived in Hollywood, Bel Air, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica and similar places in California should have been as interested in conferences as the citizens of Oslo, Warsaw, Bonn, and the Bronx. Some of the Hollywood folk may have sons whom they want to continue to live and therefore they like peace. J. M. Schreiner, for instance, knows how tough it can be to have a son plucked out of his work to start life in Alaska. It could be worse in worse places.

My point is that people are people, whatever their occupations. The story is that the "film tycoons" have invested millions of dollars in motion pictures delightfully called, flickers, in which the villains are Communists and that if love and good-will prevailed, as a result of the Geneva Conference, these films would be outdated and Hollywood "film tycoons" would lose all their money. Thus far, few important motion pictures have appeared in which the veritable villain is a Communist. The best of such pictures, "My Son John," which was based on the story of Alger Hiss, got killed off by a series of episodes which somehow one never expects in real life. Few anti-Communist pictures have made any big money—nothing like pictures make which emphasize sex.

The motion picture industry does find it difficult to portray villains because of the pressures of foreign countries and minority groups in the United States. The only stereotyped villain against whom there is never a protest is an American citizen who has been successful in his business, possibly a banker, tall, handsome, well-dressed, living a moral family life, going to church and investing his money productively. Such a man belongs to no minority group and therefore has no organized defenders.

On the other hand, a Communist villain, particularly one who has spied on his country but has hidden behind the good and broad shield of the Fifth Amendment, will evoke the anger of those who believe in but do not always practice civil liberties and who regard what they call democracy as more important than patriotism, moral responsibility and the Natural Law of God.

It is difficult to believe that even those who make motion pictures for a living would make a villain out of a Communist because it is a fashion and then paint the Devil as a saint because the trend has changed. There are some in this business, as in any other, who are lacking in character and to whom the paper dollar and a mammoth swimming pool have come to be symbols of importance. On the whole, however, the management of the larger companies in the motion picture industry is in the hands of responsible men with an understanding of American problems. No one would question the bona fides of Walt Disney, to mention a name.

The best thing that could happen to Hollywood would be to establish a free market in villains. Let them be portrayed according to the imagination of the writers and the worth of their stories. I wonder whether, as things are today, we can really produce "Othello" or "The Merchant of Venice" honestly without stirring up the pressure groups. And can we go to Yugoslavia to produce Tolstoy's "War and Peace"? Are the Yugoslavs Russians? Why not go to Canada and use the Duhobors for the mass scenes? What pressure group sent this picture to Yugoslavia and what group will put a picket line around the theaters that try to show it? Who will be the villains in "War and Peace"?

Mr. H. G. Heller
Daily Record
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Dear Sir:

Your article on Park & Shop, Inc. on Aug. 3, 1955 intrigued me. Why? Because you mentioned many places where the plan is good but carefully omitted a fairly close neighbor of the Stroudsburg, namely Allentown, my birthplace. Now this was done to keep the local merchants from pulling their hair because you might have reminded the local citizens of the great old plan has proved to be to outside shoppers.

Well, let's notice the local businessmen a bit because something must be done about parking conditions in both towns AND SOON! I have many friends and relatives who come up here to visit me and they are often eager to go into town to shop or for a movie but after struggling thru the traffic to get to my home not far from Eagle Valley Corners, or seeing the lack of parking spaces on Main Street, they lose all desire and I do not blame them.

When I have made shopping trips to Allentown I have often taken a local friend, and many now go down there to shop. This is really working against my own adopted town, so I decided to let you know how much people like the convenience of Park & Shop, and maybe the local merchants would wake up and take action. They are actually losing a great deal of tourist trade because of overcrowded conditions. Have you read about the "perimeter" parking lots for the clerks, bank tellers, etc. that work in the heart of town?

Please, Mr. Heller, push this idea a bit more in your column. It's a prosperous one for the Stroudsburgs.

I am sincerely interested in trying to get someone up here take an active interest in this parking idea. Do you, Mr. Heller, have contacts in Bethlehem, or would you know where to obtain statistics to show the difference in retail sales between Allentown and Bethlehem? It would make an interesting article and I am sure the difference, or contrast could be attributed to better parking conditions.

I hope I haven't bored you—your column seldom bores me!

Dear Sir:

The 58th annual convention June 17th, and parade, June 18th of the Four County Firemen's Association, has now passed into history. And, pleasant history at that. Both the convention and the parade proved splendid successes. So much so is this true is brought to the attention of the members of the Stroudsburg Fire Department almost daily by the general public which enjoyed the parade especially.

Preparation for events of the calibre of those held in Stroudsburg represents hundreds of hours of work on the part of those back of the projects.

Notwithstanding the volunteer firemen willingly gave of their time and energy, the two projects would not have been the success they turned out to be had it not been for the wonderful and valuable assistance given by you, civic organizations and other individuals.

It is impossible to personally reach and thank every one who assisted our department in the preparation and carrying out of the plans. Consequently, we take this means of sincerely thanking you for the fine assistance given us. We will long remember it.

Very sincerely yours,
Archie S. Rundle,
Chairman,

Brainwashing, Properly Handled, Badly Needed

From what we hear, plenty of people get the service who don't want it, but nobody ever says where a willing customer might go to get his brain washed.

There is probably a bigger latent demand for that kind of information than a person would think, offhand.

Just from my own experience I know there are times when it seems that nothing would do my brain more good than a thorough sousing in one of those mild but mighty detergents—the kind that is strong enough to remove all traces of sludge but not too harsh for Milady's hands or her finest undies.

Anybody who works mainly with his head has periods when the gears seem a little gummy and the flywheel is hard to move off dead center. The feel of it is very similar to that punky response an automobile motor gives to the accelerator after a 5,000-mile trip over what the maps designate wryly as "locally maintained" roads.

In short, the old think-mill doesn't function quite like the precision machine one likes to consider it. Instead of that sharp, crisp quality so much to be desired, the products it turns out have more of a soggy, chewed-up look. There is no satisfaction in them.

In an automobile this condition can be remedied in large degree by flushing out the crankcase with kerosene and changing the oil. It would be nice if some comparable remedial treatment were available for a sluggish brain.

Sometimes a writer can achieve somewhat the same effect by putting a black new ribbon on his typewriter, but you can't change ribbons on a brain. More's the pity.

A good brainwashing sounds like just the thing to snap one out of these mental doldrums. A person wouldn't mind if the laundries planted an idea or two in there during the process. At such a time even phony ideas might serve a useful purpose—as decoys to attract others.

But the brainwashing business has fallen into the hands of a very low class of people. They work furtively, shanghaiing their clients and making no effort to enter to the walk-in trade. And probably they shouldn't be encouraged to branch out any.

Yet one can't help deploring the fact that unscrupulous operators got hold of brainwashing at the start and gave it a bad name before decent people ever had a chance to explore its possibilities.

Plenty of constructive work might be done in that line. A good many people are doing their thinking with brains that are badly slugged up with prejudice, suspicion and conceit. Life would be saner and pleasanter if those people could be rinsed out a little, at least.

But the chances are that those who need a brainwashing most would be the last to patronize the laundry. They like themselves the way they are.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

Pierre Vaillard tells an enchanting tale about a young Parisian who was wheeling his baby son's carriage through the Bois. Sonny was howling with rage. The Parisian kept repeating softly, "Control yourself, Bernard. Just be calm, Bernard."

The library building of Northland college, Ashland, Wis., is a replica of the birthplace of George Washington at Wakefield, Va.

"A child psychologist watched the scene approvingly, and tapped the Parisian on the shoulder. "Congratulations, monsieur," he said warmly, "for keeping your temper so admirably. You know how to handle the little fellow. Gently does it! So he's named Bernard, eh?"

"Not at all," corrected the Parisian. "He's named Andre. I'm Bernard."

The professor cast a kindly glance at the big-dug in the last row (he happened to be the variety fullback) and said, "Here's an easy one for you. Name three characters in Malory's 'Morte d'Arthur.'" The big back pondered deeply and came up with, "Well, first of all, there was old Mort himself."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Red China Dangles New Peace Overture To U. S.

Washington, August 5: Red China is dangle a new spectacular peace overture.

It's a treaty of amity and friendship with the U. S.

Directly implied in the extra-ordinary maneuver is, on one hand, settlement of the explosive Formosa and other Far Eastern problems, and on the other, Communist China's admittance to the UN and abolishing the embargo on strategic supplies.

This concept is strongly favored by Premier Nehru and his close friend Ambassador Krishna Menon.

Congressional leaders understand the roving diplomat has been very active in propounding this plan in his series of secret talks in Washington, London and Geneva.

According to congressional information, Peiping-Delei strategy is not to press this matter in the ambassadorial discussions now going on in Geneva. These talks are to be used to lay the ground for a conference at a policy level—between Secretary of State Dulles and Premier Chou-En-lai.

This later parley would consider the friendship pact idea and its corollaries, on the basis of an agenda tentatively broached in the current Geneva conversations.

Congressional authorities have been advised that a key feature of the momentous project is its "progressive nature"; that is, one step or measure would lead to another. The friendship accord between the U. S. and Red China would be followed by the latter's admittance to the UN, the lifting of the strategic embargo, etc., etc.

Note: Russia is expected to spring a new "peace" surprise at the UN atomic conference that opens in Geneva next week. U. S. experts believe they have an inkling of the Soviet's move.

On Guard—Congressional leaders are keeping an intent eye on the reported Delhi-Peiping plan.

Some legislators are making no secret of their concern about the matter. Representative James Richards (D., S. C.), chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, did this in a significant speech in the closing hours of the recent session.

Because of the stormy confusion of the adjournment, Richards' stern comments went unnoticed outside the House chamber. But there they drew enthusiastic bipartisan acclaim. Representatives Walter Judd (R., Minn.), Chet Holifield (D., Calif.), John Vorys (R., O.), Michael Feighan (D., O.), Robert Byrd (D., W. Va.), Thomas Dodd (D., Conn.) and others warmly applauded Richards.

The South Carolinian bluntly warned against Communist wiles. "The stark reality is that we can place no confidence in the new brand of smiles of the Communists," said Richards. "This new form of brainwashing is an insidious thing, doubly dangerous because it ties in so closely with the longing of our own people for release from the tensions and strain of warlike talk. The plan is to blend the summit talks with Chou En-lai talks at a high level, and to give us the one-two punch when the time is ripe, and all the while the faith of the fringe free world will be whittled away until we stand alone."

"I hope my lack of confidence in the new face of Communists does not appear cynical. But why should we have confidence in their smiles and their charm campaign, when every teaching of Lenin and Stalin seeks to justify a campaign of charm and compromise to achieve the ultimate goal of world revolution?"

Examine closely the chain of events since this latest charm campaign was inaugurated. Here is the anesthetic by which they propose to put the free world to sleep while they reform their lines. . . . If Russia and Red China wish to convince us of their sincerity, let them announce to the world that they once and for all renounce the teachings of Lenin and Stalin, and that they abandon the aim of world revolution."

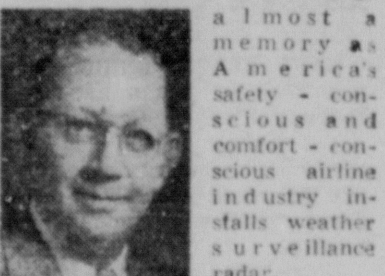

Note: It is now definitely known that at the very time the summit conference was in progress in Geneva, more than 50 Russian general staff officers arrived in Prague to set up a joint satellite military command. This organization is the Kremlin's counterpart to NATO.

Flashes—The long-expected report on the Culler Company's production of Salk vaccine is now slated for publication by August 15. That's what Surgeon General Leonard Scheele has told Representative Percy Priest (D., Tenn.) who headed the investigation of the handling of the antipolio vaccine. . . . A Nebraska is the probable next Solicitor General of the U. S. He is Lee Rankin, Lincoln, Neb., who is now an Assistant Attorney General. White House insiders say the 46-year-old lawyer is slated to succeed Simon Sobeloff, who has been promoted to the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. . . . Margaret Truman, daughter of the former President, is departing on a European tour with Guri Lie, daughter of the former UN Secretary General. The two young ladies are close friends. . . . The Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs is going to have swanky faculty homes. Plans call for a $90,000 house for the Superintendent, $60,000 structures for two deans, and 44 other faculty houses at $27,500 each. . . . Remarkable Representative Everett Scrivner (R-Kans.), acedly when he learned this at a private committee meeting, "I don't know of any other university professors who are housed in such expensive homes. Sure is going to be fancy."

Weather Checked By Radar

—by H. G. Heller

ROUGH flight due to storm, cloud turbulence and other weather conditions will soon be a almost a memory as a America's safety - conscious and comfort - conscious airline industry installs weather surveillance radar.

With new radars, costing the airlines upwards of $20,000 for each aircraft installation, pilots can detect thunderstorms and turbulence as far as 150 miles away and steer a safe course around them.

The radar does not actually "see" the clouds or the turbulence in the storm, but detects instead the raindrops. Meteorological research has determined, however, that turbulence is associated with rainfall. The pilot, therefore, can pick his way through a severe line squall or cold front by avoiding the centers of thunderstorm activity.

In theory radar is simple. A radio wave is transmitted along as narrow a beam as possible. Should it strike an object it can not penetrate, it will reflect an echo. By receiving this echo back and noting the time elapsed, the distance to the object may be known, since radio waves travel at a constant speed. The same principle is employed in sonar range measuring devices using a sound wave. Bats have been doing this for thousands of years, emitting sharp squeaks as they fly and reading the echoes of surrounding trees or cave walls.

Radar "sees" objects by translating the return echo into opaque outline shapes very similar to a shadow on the radar scope, which is like the picture tube found in every television set. The antenna in the nose of the airliners is rotated rapidly, all the while transmitting high-frequency radio impulses and picking up their echo. This echo impulse is routed into the cockpit scope where its energy lights up a spot on the screen. The rapid scanning of the antenna, plus the hundreds of impulses transmitted every second, combine to flash a constant picture of weather activity for miles around.

This enables the pilot to pick out the path of least resistance for many miles. Looking "through" a cloud to see what is behind it is possible, since falling raindrops actually occupy a small portion of space.

Although private colleges and universities in the United States outnumber public institutions 1,900 to 350, the public institutions have slightly more students than the private.

Airplane builders believe that four passenger helicopters may sell for about the price of an expensive car within 10 years.

Dial Service Starts Monday In Portland

PORTLAND, the first of Pennsylvania Community Telephone Company's seventeen exchanges, will be cut-over to dial service at 7:01 A.M. Monday, Aug. 8, Arthur DeHaven, manager of the Bangor District, reported yesterday.

Preceding the cut-over to automatic telephone service, company officials have distributed temporary directories which include all the new Portland telephone numbers to Portland and Columbia, N. J. telephone subscribers as well as pamphlets explaining in detail dial instructions.

On Thursday night company officials presented the film entitled "Dial Comes To Town" before a gathering of Portland residents at the high school. Following the film, a general discussion period concerning dial operation was conducted by D. G. Chapman, commercial manager for the Commonwealth Telephone and Pennsylvania Community Telephone Companies.

Further Change Planned

Cut-over of the Portland Exchange to dial service marks the beginning of mechanization of the entire Pennsylvania Community System. Conversion of the Portland area to dial involved construction of a new exchange on State St., installation of dial equipment in the central office, running of new cable and wire and the installation of more than 570 subscriber telephone sets. Cost of its conversion approximated $150,000.

All Portland telephone numbers will be seven digits including the prefix TW followed by five numbers. Purpose of this is to allow, at a not too distant date, for the Portland exchange to participate in the nation-wide operator inter-toll dialing system.

Mr. DeHaven stated that Monday's cut-over will be attended by town officials who will participate in making the first dial calls.

Million and Half Outing

Pennsylvania Community Telephone Co. is a subsidiary of the Commonwealth Telephone Co. of Dallas, Pa. It is management's intention within the next three years to convert all of Pennsylvania Community's exchanges to dial operation and, in this same period, provide its subscribers with more efficient service and achieve better grading of service. More than $1,554,105 is being spent this year alone on new construction in Delieving Schmidt dead, Una married a lumberjack last September and was living in Soda Springs, Calif., when she learned that her first husband was a Red prisoner. She says, "Now I don't know what I am going to do."

Other Pennsylvania Community exchanges to be converted to dial this month will be the Rawlinsville exchange on Aug. 22 and the Gratz exchange on Aug. 29. Other Pennsylvania Community exchanges scheduled for dial cut-over this year are Saylorsburg, Tremont, Atglen and Gap.

Scientists Jam Geneva For A-Talks

GENEVA, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Palace of Nations, built in another era as home of the League of Nations, is caught up today in an atomic revolution.

Scientists from 72 countries are rushing preparations for the atomic-for-peace conference within its historic walls.

In fact, all Geneva is jammed with atomic experts, mysterious packing cases, plane loads of scientific papers, industrialists and newspaper correspondents.

All hotel space was sold out long ago. Hundreds of visitors already are staying in private homes or commuting from neighboring cities.

Sponsored by U. N.

In the stately, marble halls of the palace, workmen mount the elaborate exhibits of their governments—heavy, sinister-looking machines, scale models of atomic power plants, complicated charts. The conference, sponsored by the United Nations as part of President Eisenhower's atomic-for-peace program, opens Monday. It will continue through Aug. 20.

This first international meeting devoted exclusively to the peaceful uses of atomic energy will be one of the largest scientific conferences ever held.

A U. N. official said more than 1,500 government delegates will be on hand. More than 700 industrial representatives have applied for tickets as observers.

Exchange of Data

Through exhibits, lectures, papers, films and panel discussions, scientists will exchange information on atomic developments—many of which have up until now been classified as secret.

The conference will bring together such figures as Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission; Sir John Cockcroft, director of Britain's atomic research center at Harwell; Prof. Dmitri V. Skobeltsyn, one of Russia's leading atomic authorities; and Pierre Guillaumat, administrator of the French atomic program.

Firm Hired To Complete Assessments

of real property within the county in accordance with 'The Fourth To Eighth Class County Assessment Law' as amended and the 'Report of the Committee of Ten' established thereby; provided, however, that such contract shall not be binding on the county until J. L. Jacobs and Co. has delivered to the county a Performance Bond and a Labor and Material Bond, each in the full amount of the contract and each with property surety and each to be satisfactory to the board.

Contract Signed

A contract between the county and the Jacobs firm has been drawn up and signed by two representatives of the company and three commissioners—Rake, Altomose and Granville Shiffer. Signing for the company were Thomas Jacobs and Martin D. Miller, partners in the firm.

The contract sets down specifically that it is in no way binding until bonds have been delivered to the county.

Following is a breakdown of the provisions of the contract with J. L. Jacobs and Co.:

The firm agrees to provide all services needed for completion of the tax mapping program and reappraisal of all taxable real estate in Monroe County. This does not include, however, minerals or mineral rights.

Jacobs and Co. assumes responsibility for all "mapping operations" as of Aug. 15 this year. The same index system already used to identify maps and parcels of land in work completed is to be used by the company. So are map scales, sheet sizes and filing system developed on existing maps. Changes in any part of the present system must be approved in writing by the assessment board.

Identifying Properties

Areas or dimensions of all properties are to be indicated on the maps. Each property must be marked "improved or unimproved." All properties mapped are to be identified in such a way (by numbers or symbols) that ownership of each piece of land can be found by referring to a property record card or property owner's index.

The property record card is supposed to provide all information needed to make a valuation. Under contract terms the card must be approved by the county's chief assessor.

Each property record card gives the location and description of the property, the dimensions, improvements, date of purchase or acquisition, the purchase price, the appraised and assessed value of the land and improvements on it and

PHILIP COOMBE, 23, who lost a leg while fighting north of Seoul, Korea, leaves his home in Arlington, N. J., for a stroll. He is seeking to rejoin the Marines since he is convinced that the amputation has not incapacitated him for duty. Coombe, who is married, has offered to give up his $249 monthly life-time disability pension.

the identifying number or symbol corresponding to that used on the tax map. The cards are to be arranged geographically according to location of the properties on the tax maps.

The property owner's index cards consist of an alphabetical listing of all property owners. They also give a brief description of each parcel or lot owned. They must be cross-indexed with the record cards and tax maps.

Technical Provisions

The contract sets down these technical mapping provisions: That maps shall be drawn on "best grade vellum" paper to a scale of one inch equal to 200 feet. Two sets of prints of tracings shall be prepared for the county—one to be assembled in correct order and bound in post binders; the second to be assembled in correct order but held together by staples if desired.

All sources of materials used to prepare the maps must be turned over to the county when work is completed. This includes map tracings.

The firm is required to make all revisions involving changes in ownership or subdivision of properties on its maps if they occur on or before April 1, 1956.

Jacobs and Co. is required to make a complete reappraisal and revaluation of each property in the county at its actual value. The value of land is to be determined and recorded on maps showing value per acre in rural areas and per foot in boroughs and residential areas.

The firm must make a "careful analysis" of costs for residential, commercial and industrial construction. To do this the company is required to obtain prices of materials from local dealers and wage scales for various trades and classes of work.

Manual Being Prepared

A property assessment manual for Monroe County is to be prepared from a summary of this and other pertinent data. The manual is to be used by the chief assessor in determining property valuations.

All commercial properties are to be appraised and measured by tape. Pencil sketches showing the dimensions of such properties are to be shown on the property record cards.

All industrial properties are to be appraised and a plan of property must be drawn up to scale with the buildings numbered and shown in their proper location on the tract.

For residential properties: A "field card" is to be prepared showing a pencil ground plan of each principal building, the dimensions of the main building, porches and additions and notations on the class of building and type of construction used in each structure. The company is required to inspect both the exterior and interior of each residential building.

Under terms of the contract, the county agrees to furnish the following data, maps, equipment or services to assist the firm in completing the job of setting up the new assessment program.

Furnished By County

The originals and copies of all tax maps and records completed by Aug. 15. All other reference maps, aerial photographs and deed record information obtained by the county to date.

Complete access to recorded real property identification material in the office of the register and recorder. The county agrees to pay for photographic copies of recorded plots to be used in checking descriptions of land with a maximum of $400 set for such expenditures. All office space and furniture "such as tables, chairs, lighting and filing cabinets for subsequent permanent storage of the property record cards in the county court house."

To fulfill its portion of the contract the Jacobs firm is required to provide the following specific items:

All personnel required for all work to be done. All the material to be used in the project. The company is required to comply with the Workmen's Compensation Law and the Public Liability Insurance statutes.

All calculating machines and equipment are to be provided by the company. All property record cards must be furnished and printed by the firm, as are all land description forms and other supplies. The company must comply with the minimum wage laws and with all existing laws governing withholding taxation and social security deductions.

Cooperate With Assessor

The company must give full instruction to the chief assessor and his assistants in making out and continuing the valuation and assessment procedures set forth in the county assessment manual and must cooperate with the chief assessor in informal reviews with property owners of all assessments based on appraisals for a period of three consecutive weeks when the system is finished.

Microfilm records of all property record cards are to be provided by the company to the county after the review periods above. The company agrees to assist in public relations through preparation of news releases and through conferences with local citizens and property owner groups.

Section Four, Page Six of the contract states: "The company agrees to begin execution of this work immediately after the approval of this agreement and to continue diligently thereafter until all services as provided for under Paragraph 1 are completed and agrees to complete the same by June 1, 1956."

The company is also required to make "periodic" reports on the progress of work and to hold conferences with both the chief assessor and the board to explain such progress.

Amount Set Forth

Section Six covers payment by the county for completion of the program:

"It is hereby mutually agreed between the parties . . . that the sum to be paid by the county to the company for all said services, work, materials, supplies and equipment and expenses of every nature, including travel and subsistence shall be $97,800."

The contract drawn up and signed by commissioners and the firm also covers the follow-up period after the new assessment system is in operation.

One expected outgrowth of any change in assessment systems, according to experts, is the appeal by property owners to the revised assessment on individual properties.

The present contract specifies that the company will send a "qualified representative" for appearance as an expert witness before the local court in any such hearings. The company witness would be paid by the county at the rate of $50 per day, the contract provides. A maximum cost of $1,500 is set for payment by the county.

The company will be required to submit monthly invoices from which payment by the county will be made. The county reserves the right to cancel the contract if the company fails in the performance of any part of the agreement.

According to the contract, the county "shall (also) have the right to cancel this contract without cause" by giving the company 30 days' notice and fixing a termination date for the contract.

If such a decision were reached, the company is bound to turn over all work and source work completed to that date to the county. Jacobs and Co. must provide a professional engineer, licensed and registered under Pennsylvania laws, to act as supervisor for mapping.

Dodgers Roar Over Braves

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4 (AP)—Brooklyn roared from behind with five runs in the ninth, three of them on Roy Campanella's homer, and weathered a last ditch rally to nip Milwaukee 11-10 in a slugfest that boosted the Bums' National League bulge to 15½ games.

Both sides used four pitchers in the wild, seasaw battle that produced a total of 25 hits.

A crowd of 32,967 watched the Braves kayo Don Newcombe in the fifth.

Home runs were hit by Bobby Thomson, Johnny Logan, Don Zimmer, Andy Pafko, Carl Furillo and Campanella.

The Braves came up with four runs in the seventh to go ahead 9-6, the final tally coming on Pafko's circuit. But the Braves weren't through and neither were the Braves.

Furillo clouted a homer leading off the ninth. Then consecutive singles by pinchhitters Jackie Robinson and Frank Keller and Pee Wee Reese made it 9-8. Chet Nichols relieved Ernie Johnson. Campanella greeted him with his game-winning shot over the fence.

Clem Labine, fourth Dodger pitcher, hurling in the last of the ninth, gave up a walk to Logan. Henry Aaron sent a liner to left center, scoring Logan with the Braves' 10th run. But Labine steadied and got out the side without further damage.

Wall Shoots 74 In All-American Tournament As Comparative Unknowns Share Early Lead

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—The lesser-known pros had a big time on Tam O'Shanter's sun-cooked American golf tournament.

Touring the 6,915 yards in humid, 96-degree weather in four-under-par 68's were Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., the 1954 National Amateur champion who turned pro last winter; Wally Ulrich of Rochester, Minn., a one-time veteran of the PGA circuit, and Ted Kroll of Utah, N. Y., fifth leading money-winner of the season.

Jammed up, one stroke behind with 69's, were PGA national champion Doug Ford, Bo Wininger, and five longshots—Al Mengert of Mamoroneck, N. Y., the National Jaycee champion in 1946 and 1947; Tom Talkington of Ypsilanti, Mich.; Jay Hebert of Woodmere, L. I. N. Y.; George Bolesta of Danville, Ill., and Walker Inman Jr., of Augusta, Ga., a pro since 1950.

Following this assortment were eight 70 shooters, including Johnny Revolta, Earl Stewart and long-hitting Mike Souchak, second on the PGA money list.

Only 27 in a field of 149 pros could solve par as the heat browned out the fairways and made the hardened greens bouncy. Among them were Jimmy Demaret, Jerry Barber, British Open champion Peter Thomson, Ed Furgol, Freddie Haas and Roberto DeVincento—all with 71's.

It was a struggle for most other big shot pros. Chick Harbert, Jim Turnesa, Sam Snead and Shelley Mayfield were among the 16 clustered at par 72. Cary Middlecoff, Bob Toski, Dave Douglas, Dutch Harrison, Walter Burkemo and Frank Stranahan were bunched with 21 shooters in the 73 groups. Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., each had a 74. Johnny Bulla, Export, Pa., had a 76.

Redlegs Stop Phillies With Clutch Twin Killing In Ninth

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4 (AP)—A double play, with th bees filled and one out in the ninth inning, turned back the Philadelphia Phils today and gave Cincinnati a 4 to 3 victory.

The Phils went in front in the fourth inning on Del Ennis' 22nd home run of the season with Graney Hammer on base, and registered their last run in the seventh on Jim Greengrass' fourth circuit blow of the year.

Banks Sets Record As Cubs Triumph

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ernie Banks' hot bat produced three home runs and a single in the collection of seven runs batted in today as the Chicago Cubs edged Pittsburgh, 11-10, for their third win of the five-game series.

The Chicago shortstop got three of the game's eight homers. Both teams pitched out 15 hits. Banks' homers were his Nos. 34, 35, and 36, and gave him a total of five round trippers for the five-game set.

Pittsburgh had a 10-9 lead when Banks batted the last time in the eighth. After Dick Littlefield gifted Jim King with a leadoff walk, Banks drove his third homer into the vacant centerfield seats to give the Cubs their tying and winning runs.

The Pirates fought back from a 2-9 deficit to fashion a 9-9 standoff and went ahead on Gene Freese's ninth homer with one out in the eighth.

The seven RBI's gave Banks a new Chicago club record for shortstops—87—topping Roy Smalley's all-time record high of 85.

Bain, Luedee Win Decisions

PHILIPSBURG, N. J., Aug. 4 (AP)—Tommy Bain, 127, Indianapolis, and Jerry Luedee, 162, New Haven, Conn., won the co-features on a light card here tonight.

Bain outpointed Baby Beau Jack, 125, New York, with Referee Paul Cavalier giving him five rounds. Two went to Jack and one to even. Luedee gained a 5-3 verdict from Referee Joe Harrison over Curtis Bruce, 158, Newark, N. J.

Smith Paces Women

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP)—Willie Smith, 18-year-old amateur from St. Clair, Mich., fired a two-under-par 74 to top both the pro and amateur divisions of the women's first-round competition today in the All-American golf tourney.

Senators Slug Tigers With Defeat, 9-6

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Chuck Stobbs turned in a superb relief hurling job and four Washington batters collected three hits each today as the Senators outslugged the Detroit Tigers to win, 9-6.

Indians Drop Yankees To Third Place

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Vic Wertz' three-run homer in the seventh inning off Johnny Kucks gave the Cleveland Indians a 6-3 victory over the New York Yankees today and undisputed possession of second place in the hot American League race.

The Indians scored in the first and third with Al Rosen and Al Smith driving in the runs on singles, but the Yankees tied it up in the sixth on a single by Bill Skowron, a 430-foot triple by Elston Howard, and a pinch hit single by Joe Collins.

This set the stage for Wertz' dramatic blast into the lower right field stands after Gene Woodring opened the seventh with a single, and Rosen, who had hit safely three times previously, walked.

Mickey Mantle, who has been in a hitting slump, powered his 24th home run of the year into the upper deck in right field in the last of the ninth with the bases empty.

The Indians garnered an insurance run in the ninth inning when Smith singled, and Rosen sent him to third on his fourth single of the day but was out trying for second. Ferris Fain singled, scoring Smith.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

GORDON GIFFELS FIELD is having its face lifted these days. Both of the dugouts, badly in need of repair, are being improved with additional cinder blocks and a new top. The wall near the main entrance has been changed from wood to cinder blocks and the field itself has taken on a "new look," although the playing surface has been badly burned by the hot sun and absence of anything resembling rain.

Stroudsburg Little League collected $1,061.58 during its recent Tag Day program, with one box still not handed in to headquarters. This is one of the most successful Tag Day collections in the history of the league. Harold Snyder, who kept Stroudsburg Speedway in tip-top shape in recent years is back working on the local half-mile oval and will again have the track in good condition for a 50-lap stock car race next Saturday afternoon and a 200-lap new car grind next Saturday night.

Both races are part of the big Tri-State Fair being sponsored by the George N. Kemp American Legion Post. The fair begins next Monday and runs through the following Saturday. Both races will feature some of the best drivers in the country. Dr. John Lim graciously picked up the check for the spaghetti supper given for the Strouds on Wednesday night. The Strouds are currently the top club in the Bi-State League and should remain in that position until the finish line is reached.

It is this reporter's opinion that Twin City TV is the best team to ever represent Monroe County in the Keystone Amateur Softball Association State Tournament. The club has class and should make its presence felt in the field of outstanding tournament entries. It's the best team I've ever witnessed in action in this area. Not only does it have class, but it has a brand of teamwork not often found in amateur softball ranks.

John Whitehead, head football coach at Stroudsburg High, is rapidly becoming known as a plenty solid golfer. Stroudsburg High's faculty boasts three good golfers in the persons of Whitehead, Jerry Stulgaitis and John Kupiec, and each is on the coaching staff. The entire local sporting world is wishing Joe Cramsey and Bill Dwyer a speedy recovery from illnesses that have them confined to the Monroe County General Hospital. Each is a true friend of sports in this area.

Gene Law, once a pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos, turned in a good relief job the other night to insure Reading of a 9-7 verdict over Elmira. Law came on the scene with two on and two outs in the ninth inning and retired "Chuck" Coles on a grounder to end the game. Reading is currently the number one team in the standings of the Eastern League. East Stroudsburg State Teachers College may feature a record enrollment during the coming school year. The school is almost desperate for housing.

John Drew, one of the better catchers to ever reside in the Stroudsburgs, is visiting in this area at the present time. John, who once caught for the Stroudsburg Poconos and later for Pocono A. C., is now a resident of Long Island. Stroudsburg Little League's making the trip to Yankee Stadium tomorrow don't have to wear their uniforms. They must bring money for their noon meal, but the evening meal will be supplied by the Stroudsburg Little League Mothers.

If National Bank wins the second half crown in the East Stroudsburg Little League, it will have to oppose Cramer Lumber, first half title holder, in a special playoff. The East Stroudsburg Minor League may play next Wednesday and Thursday nights. Until now the circuit has played all of its games in the afternoon. East Stroudsburg Little League plans a special game on Wednesday, August 17, at which time the managers and umpires will form a team to play the All-Star squad. Women will do the umpiring.

The special East Stroudsburg game will also feature a cake walk after the final inning. Twin City TV will depart for Greensburg, Pa., at 1 p. m. today. The first half title holder in the Monroe County Softball League will play its first game in the Keystone Amateur Softball Association Tournament tomorrow morning. The hard condition of local baseball fields, brought about by the present dry and hot conditions, has players talking to themselves. Seemingly easy hit grounders take on new life on the concrete-like playing surface and are taking crazy bounces.

Lumbermen Crush HLH With 20-Hit Little League Attack

CRAMER LUMBER PUT ON a hitting demonstration enroute to a one-sided 23-9 victory over Heller-Lloyd-Howell in an East Stroudsburg Little League baseball game last night. The contest was halted after five innings by darkness.

The winning club, first half champion of the circuit, banged out a total of 20 hits and took advantage of four HLH errors to win by one of the largest margins of the current campaign.

Actually the Lumbermen scored in only two innings, racking up 10

Little League Lists Special Playoff Plans

EAST STROUDSBURG Little League reached the end of its second half baseball schedule last night and East Stroudsburg National Bank was crowned the second half champion. Cramer Lumber won the first half title.

These same two teams will now meet in a best two-out-of-three series. The first contest will begin at 6 p.m. Monday.

The second contest is listed for next Thursday and if a third outing is needed it will be played on Monday, August 15.

Forfeit

Cramer Lumber and National Bank played to a seven-inning tie recently, but the Lumbermen were forced to forfeit the game last night when it was found they accidentally used an ineligible player in the contest.

In case of rain the scheduled playoff games will be held the following night.

A change has been made in the Minor League schedule in East Stroudsburg. National Bank and the Methodists will play at 6 p.m. next Wednesday, while Heller-Lloyd-Howell and Cramer Lumber battle on Thursday, August 18.

Home Freezing Big Step Toward Leisure Living

A Busy Food Freezer Pays Off In Economy

To get the best returns on the investment in a home freezer, it should be used as much as possible. That is, a rapid turnover of food in the freezer makes for the greatest savings. Many folks find this a difficult lesson to learn for they think of "saving" food instead of "storing" it. Actually, food is "saved" by "storing" it in the freezer but quantities should not be built beyond your needs for a reasonable length of time; that is, two, three or six months. Otherwise, you begin to build a backlog of food that is merely taking up space while representing a good-sized investment in unused assets.

But keep the freezer busy and it will prove a thrifty companion. Here are some tips on how to accomplish this:

1. Follow a freezing schedule, based on a food production plan that meets the needs of the family and which is planned with a view towards providing for extraordinary uses, such as unexpected guests, dinner parties or unusually bad weather that keeps you indoors.

2. When you buy food for freezing, buy it cheaper in large quantities at the height of the season.

3. If the family sells poultry or produce, the home freezer can be a real help in increasing profits. Poultry, for example, can be frozen and stored until the market prices are more favorable.

4. Keep your eye on freezer food specials at your local market. As in all food buying you can profit by bargain-hunting and the beauty of freezer food buying is that you can buy more of such bargains than when spoilage is a factor.

5. Check up on complete dinners and other unusual buys that are available at your frozen food counters. They often can represent an economy.

How economical a freezer can be depends largely on whether food is home-grown or purchased, the kinds and quantities frozen, and how the freezer is used. It is obvious that it does not pay to freeze foods commonly available and relatively inexpensive at all seasons.

For many families the economies of home freezing are rated less important than the time-saving benefits in shopping for food and preparing meals and the satisfaction of enjoying a variety of fresh-flavored foods of high nutritive value the year 'round.—Adv.

Penn State Offers Three Short Courses

THE COLLEGE of Agriculture at Pennsylvania State University will offer three short courses during August, according to County Agent A. E. Hilt. The three courses and dates they will be held are: Beekeeping, Aug. 22 to 26; poultry farming, Aug. 22 to 26; and small sawmill training, Aug. 22 and 23. Applicants are now being enrolled by the director of short courses in agriculture at the university.

The beekeeping course, offered annually has been very popular with persons interested in bees. Persons who enroll in this course will devote a large part of their time actually working in the university apiary.

The poultry farming course, taught by university staff members, should be of interest to experienced poultrymen and to beginners in the poultry business.

Many of the problems of the small sawmill operator will be tackled in the small sawmill training course. Topics include logs, sawing technique, economical use of man and machine power, layout of the mill, lumber handling and seasoning, and marketing small mill products.

For more information about these courses or to get application blanks for enrolling contact the Monroe County Agricultural Extension Office, or write direct to: Director of Short Courses, College of Agriculture, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa.

THE GREEN THUMB:

Zinnia Mildew Controls; Control Of Lily Fungus; Turn Potted Poinsettia

MILDEW ON ZINNIA: This is the time of year your zinnia plants will start to take on a white flour-like growth on the leaves. This trouble is mildew and is more likely to occur in spots or in locations where plants are partially shaded. Mildew will cause the leaves to dry up and drop off.

Don't wait until your zinnias are hit. Take action now and dust your plants with sulfur dust (or spray), getting both sides of the leaves. Captan is helpful, and so is a more recent mildew-killer known as Karathane (also sold as Mildelex).

The secret of good control is to cover the foliage before the disease strikes.

Lily Blight
Lily notes: In spite of our dry weather, many gardeners have had trouble with their lilies. They write to tell us that the plants start out well, suddenly become brown and die. This is due to an infection of the so-called botrytis blight fungus which spreads faster following a rain. The madonna lily is especially susceptible to this fire-blight disease.

Control: Dig your bulbs up and disinfect with Bordeaux mixture, or dust with Arsan or Sporon. Replant the bulbs, avoiding shady or low spots. Spray your lilies when 4 inches high in spring, using 2 ounces of copper sulfate, one ounce of lime in 3 gallons of water.

You can buy Bordeaux mixture already prepared that will do the job. Continue spraying every 7 to 10 days or so until time or flowering.

Lilies are susceptible to other diseases, a main one being bulb rot, or basal rot. Treating with a good fungicide such as Arsan or Sporon will help. Or you can disinfect diseased dormant lily bulbs for 1/2 hour in a solution of formaldehyde, one part to 50 parts of water.

If your lilies contract a virus disease (mottled foliage), the plant or offsprings bulbs and bulbils will always contain the virus. There is no control for this. Ruthlessly roguing (pulling up) out all mottled plants prevents the virus from transmitting the virus from diseased plants to healthy lilies.

Now's a good time to... Give your outdoor potted poinsettia, etc., a turn so roots won't grow from pot into the soil. If some of your tulips suddenly changed colors this year... this is a mosaic virus. Dig up and discard all plants which showed this condition. Use Ammate to kill poison ivy or on tree stumps to keep them from resprouting.

Don't Wait Until Spring To Develop New Lawn When Fall Is Better And Easier

By Cynthia Lowry
AP Newsfeatures Writer

THE TIME HAS COME to plead again with those who would make lawns to make them in the weeks ahead, if possible. Also major lawn repairs. And I'm pleading this far in advance of seed-sowing date to give everybody a chance to get the soil dug up and given a chance to settle.

This is probably a complete waste of words. There's one important thing the matter with autumn lawn-making: Nobody—or almost nobody—wants to make lawns in the fall. Spring is the season when everybody rushes out energetically tackling more than he can handle. In autumn, enthusiasm is on the wane, we're tired from the heat and the idea of a spading fork or shovel is little short of appalling.

However, on the credit side from the gardener's point of view, the calendar is moving toward cooler weather, the annual weeds won't compete for food and water until spring. Most desirable grasses like neither hot weather nor weed competition.

ON THE credit side from the gardener's point of view is the prospect of a richer, lusher, more weed-free lawn with deep-rooted grass. There is also a good chance that usual autumn rainfall will relieve him of the watering routine.

Fertile Top Soil
Of course, the fellow who is going to start the finest lawn of all is the one who will go to greatest lengths to get it in these days when the biggest lawn problem isn't proper seed, adequate water nor the like but is an inadequate supply of good, deep, fertile top soil. He's the foresighted fellow who sowed his lawn in the spring with rye or some other annual grass and who about now will dig under—or better still, hire a man with a mechanical tiller to plow the grass which decomposes into top soil quickly.

The absolute, positively minimum amount of fertile top soil needed for an absolutely, positively minimum good lawn is four inches. Six is better and eight, of course is better still. This permits the root systems of the millions of tiny plants to go deep into the earth, become established strongly. It makes the plants less sensitive to burning sun and the heaving action of winter freezing and thawing.

As far as grass seed is concerned, there are many varieties and more are constantly being developed. The best way to choose a grass seed is to consult with a local, reputable nurseryman or seedsman, one who specializes on lawns and presumably knows the local grass problems.

Sun vs. Shade
In addition, a different mixture should be used on spots which receive full sun, than on those which receive partial shade. Spots in full shade frequently are a waste of time and money and may be better put to pachysandra or ivy immediately, but everyone always likes to make a stab at getting a stand of grass.

The best way to think about grass in terms of getting a good lawn is to treat the area like a huge garden bed which needs everything the garden does. Rocks should be dug out, the soil should be leveled and smoothed and fussed with. The seed should be sown evenly and rather sparsely. And until the millions of little perennial plants have a chance to become established, it's wise to have some desirable annual grasses in the mixture as a nurse stand next spring to discourage weeds and provide some shade for the young plants.

Good lawns can be made in the spring. They are best and easiest made, however, a few weeks from now. So do try to get up some enthusiasm.

Farmers Asked To Cooperate With Foresters

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4 — Once again the dry summer weather is causing great concern for the farmers and foresters of Pennsylvania.

The woods — both private and state lands — are in a seriously dry condition and forest fires are a constant threat. Each day without rain adds to the seriousness of the situation.

According to Secretary of Forests and Waters, Maurice K. Goddard, this is the fourth consecutive summer in which a continued dry spell has brought about dangerous forest fire conditions. Ordinarily the summer rains and showers keep the forests sufficiently supplied with moisture to avoid any serious fire conditions. The woods remain fresh and green and danger of serious fire is minimized.

Fires Burn Underground
Without these rains, drying conditions create a highly inflammable condition in the woods. The surface litter becomes dry, the lower ground levels of decayed vegetable matter, which are normally moist, dry out to a peat-like formation. This causes summer fire to burn not only over the surface but several feet into the ground. It is this deep burning condition which makes summer fires so hard and expensive to handle and so difficult to extinguish thoroughly.

Secretary Goddard emphasized that, despite the extremely dry conditions, forest fires need not occur if everyone will cooperate and more than ever be conscious of the fact that in Pennsylvania practically every forest fire comes from the carelessness of people.

Cooperation Asked
He urged that everyone, tourists, vacationists, farmers, landowners, housewives and children cooperate during these dry spells to see that no forest fires get started.

Secretary Goddard is fully convinced that the solution is a simple one. We are not responsible for the weather or the rain but forest fires are the responsibility of everyone. If everyone would do his individual part we would have no forest fires.

Amount Of Wheat In Storage Less Than Last Year

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4 — Stocks of grain held on Pennsylvania farms this July 1 showed increases over a year earlier for corn, oats, barley and rye, but less wheat, the State Department of Agriculture reported today.

Federal-State surveys showed that corn held on farms totaled 17,388,000 compared with 11,130,000 from 1954. Oats stocks at 5,346,000 bushels exceeding holdings of a year ago by more than 1,000,000 bushels. Out of last year's barley crop figures on July 1 had 880,000 bushels, about twice as much as a year earlier. Wheat on hand totaled 990,000 compared with 1,241,000 a year ago and old rye at 22,000 was 5,000 on July 1, 1954.

Good Supply Of Potatoes, Spuds, Fruit

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4 — Peaches, early summer apples, potatoes, broiler and fryer chickens will be in abundant supply from Pennsylvania farms during the month of August, the State Department of Agriculture reported today.

Early peaches are now coming in limited supplies from Orchards in the Adams-Franklin-York and the Berks-Lehigh fruit belts and will increase in volume of marketings through the early part of this month, according to K. R. Stamp, director, Bureau of Markets in the Department.

He called attention to the fact that the period from Aug. 11 through 20 will be observed as National Peach Week. Hot weather, coupled with adequate spraying on the part of growers have provided a crop of exceptional size and quality in Pennsylvania peaches this year, Stamp declared.

Abundant Volume
Early peaches are well adapted to fresh eating, cooking, canning and freezing, he pointed out. By Aug. 20, Elberta and Hale varieties will come in good volume and continue into early September.

Summer apples will be coming in heavier volume as the month progresses, many of them adapted to making pies and sauce, he said. Supplies of chicken broilers and fryers will rise to high levels during August with the month's marketings 1/6 more than in August a year ago, and about five per cent larger than marketings this June.

Milk Production High
Milk production continues at high levels in Pennsylvania and heavy supplies of all dairy products, especially fluid milk and ice cream will be available during the month of August. Summer vegetables also will be in abundant production from home gardens and commercial truck operations, Stamp reported. Local markets will be well supplied with such summer vegetables as sweet corn, lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, carrots, beets and many more.

National Vegetable Week is being observed this week, through Aug. 6.

Store Separately
STORE mixing bowls and measuring spoons separately so they can be selected without sorting. Doris L. Snook, Penn. State extension home management specialist, suggests.

About one fourth of the fruits and vegetables spoil before they reach consumers' tables.

Bees Have Their Own System For Air Conditioning Hive

UNIVERSITY PARK, Aug. 4 — Bees have their own air conditioning system.

Edwin J. Anderson, professor of apiculture at the Pennsylvania State University, explained today that during the brood-rearing season, bees will maintain a temperature of approximately 96 degrees Fahrenheit in the hive.

This is done, Anderson explains, by having one group of bees fan the air into one side of the hive and another group fan the air out the other side.

This air conditioning system is only one of the marvels of the hive.

70,000 In Colony
A colony of bees, Anderson explains, may have 70,000 bees, including the one queen bee, as many as 2,000 drones, and thousands of workers. Only the drones, who have the sole function of mating with the queen, are male bees.

The queen during the period from January to October, lays about a quarter of a million eggs. When the bees are hatched, they crawl from the broodcomb.

The workers in the hive have the functioning of housekeeping, nursing, scouting, gathering pollen and nectar, air conditioning the hive, and fighting for existence.

Early each morning the scouts seek flowers as a source of nectar. They return to the hive and perform a food dance consisting of dancing in circles and shaking their bodies. The bees follow the scouts to the area and gather the nectar, visiting as many as 10 to 60 flowers per minute.

Honeycomb Is Marvel
Returning the nectar to the hive, the bees ripen the thin nectar into honey by heating and evaporating the water from it. This honey, deposited in cells of the comb and covered with wax, will keep for thousands of years, as long as the comb is kept dry.

The honeycomb, itself, is a marvel of architecture that man cannot duplicate. Man can make the six-sided cell foundation, but cannot duplicate the work with the thin but reasonable strong wax that completes the comb.

State To Get Pensions Due Mental Cases

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4 (P)—The Commonwealth estimated today that it will collect some $750,000 a year in federal social security funds that went unclaimed by persons in Pennsylvania mental hospitals who are eligible for the grants.

"This money will be collected this year for the first time and put into the general fund," said Charles R. Barber, auditor general.

The money, expected to reach the million mark by next year and continue thereafter at that rate, will be used to defray maintenance costs of inmates being cared for by the commonwealth.

"I suppose other states are doing the same thing—if they are not, they sure should be doing it," Barber told a newsman, adding:

All Unclaimed Funds

"My department joined with the state justice department in seeking out all the unclaimed social security payments that they might be funneled into the state till."

Only persons 65-years or older are eligible for the social security payments.

The Department of Justice applied to the state security agency and was notified that it will begin receiving the monthly checks of unclaimed pensions soon.

"Most of these people in state mental institutions have become charges of the state and the state is merely collecting the money due them in order to better provide them with services," Barber explained.

No Estimate of Loss

The auditor general could not estimate how much money of this type had been lost in past years because no claims were made.

"This is the first time we have done this and it is the result of a systematic program to list all the unclaimed moneys and make application for the funds," he said.

Religious Character Of Boy Scout Movement Threatens Split Between Lutheran Synods

By George W. Cornell

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (P)—An old church feud about the religious character of the Boy Scout movement and the military chaplaincy today moved toward a climax.

It has been building up for more than 10 years, with broad overtones about joint activity of people of differing faiths.

"Religious unionism" is the charge hurled by the critics. Mere "civic righteousness," say the defenders.

Heart of Dispute

At the heart of the dispute is the question of whether a person's participation in organizations committed to serve God in general—but not his particular concept of God—is compromising his convictions.

The issue threatens a break in the relationship of two historically conservative Lutheran bodies with about 2½ million members.

In Saginaw, Mich., next week the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Wisconsin and other states meet to decide whether to sever altar and pulpit ties with the big Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Both churches—the 325,000-member Wisconsin Synod and the 2½-million-member Missouri Synod—have been traditionally wary of worship with other Christians, or other Lutherans, whose creeds differ.

Specific Complaints

But the Wisconsin Synod now claims that the Missouri Synod, with which it has shared the communion cup and joint missionary work for 83 years, is taking part in religious matters without doctrinal conformity.

Here are some of the specific complaints made against the larger church:

That it engages in joint prayer in meetings to seek unity with other Lutherans; that a common confession it endorsed is not adequately specific; that it participates in the military chaplaincy, and tolerates Boy Scout work.

Prof. E. Reim, secretary of the Wisconsin Synod's Committee on Church Union Matters and president of its theological seminary at Thiensville, Wis., cited the Boy Scout oath and law about "duty to God" and added:

"Not God of Bible"

"By making the term 'God' so broad as to be acceptable to Christians and non-Christians alike, it presents a God who is definitely not the God of the Bible."

In reports, the Wisconsin Synod has claimed the scout movement contains "Christ-less religious elements" that are "not in harmony" with scriptures, and has objected to a part of the scout law saying: "A scout... respects the convictions of others in matters of religion."

"Making this a program of our church," Prof. Reim said, "would be denying a basic principle, namely that Christian faith and Christian faith alone can produce good works that are pleasing to God."

The Missouri Synod leaves the matter of participation in scout troops up to individual congregations. The church president, Dr. John W. Behnken, of St. Louis, said:

Large Enrollment

"If a Lutheran troop is organized under leadership of a Lutheran scoutmaster, the matter of the religious training can be carried out more effectively. Lutheran Boy Scouts learn to know the only true God and Jesus Christ as their personal savior."

Throughout the nation, there now are 3,400,000 boys in 96,834 scout troops and packs, 34,80% of them—or 26 per cent—sponsored by Protestant churches.

The Missouri Synod notes the scout constitution declares the organization "absolutely nonsectarian" and leaves specific religious training up to sponsoring groups, with no boy required to take part in services not of his faith.

As for the armed forces religious program, the Wisconsin Synod charges it is "obviously Christ-less in character" since the government sees "spiritual values" in faiths that don't recognize Christ's lordship.

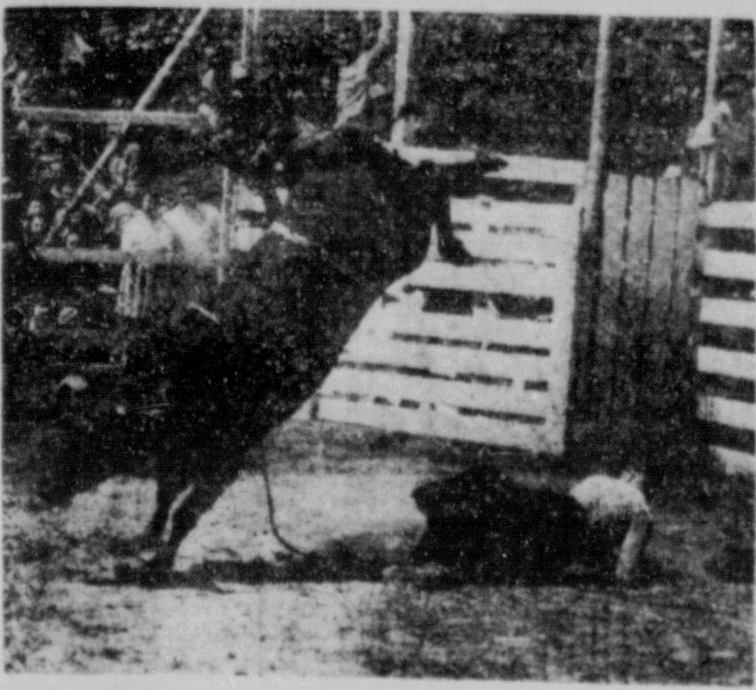

Nobody Missed Bite

QUEBEC, Aug. 4 (P)—Not a bite was missed in the four hours it took to move the Rivera Restaurant with winches and pulleys back from the waterfront. Utilities lines were stretched with the moving and the customers went right on eating. The 100-foot move was made to beat the menace of spring and fall high tides.

SHORT RIDE—Eddie Drew gets a short ride for his money as he is thrown from one of the brahma bulls that will appear in the Davy Crockett Rodeo at the Tri-State Fair next week.

Davy Crockett's Descendants Claim Merchandising Rights

By ALLAN MERRITT
OKLAHOMA, Aug. 4 (AP)—A modern-day battle of the Alamo seems to be in the making, with descendants of Davy Crockett centering their firepower on merchandising rights.

The Crockett clan also is gunning for those who have insinuated that Davy was a delinquent boy, a shiftless, ignorant man, and something less than the king of the wild frontier.

And this time the Crocketts want to be on the winning side.

They've hired lawyers and have banded together to form the David Crockett Descendants Fund, organized as a charitable trust, and have incorporated for money-making purposes as Crockett Kids, Inc.

The battle leader is Mrs. Margie Flowers Cohn of Oklahoma, who claims to be a great-great-granddaughter of the famed Indian fighter. She says she represents about 100 descendants of Davy and his first wife, Polly Finley Crockett.

The money they expect to raise, Mrs. Cohn said, will be used "for the education and medical care of the needy descendants of Crockett."

The new corporation has filed with the U.S. Patent Office an application to register as a trademark "Real Davy Crockett Kids," together with an insignia of crossed guns.

One purpose of Crockett Kids, Inc., is to protect the memory of Davy, who died at the Alamo March 6, 1836, and his first wife, Polly.

Highlight of the fair is the crowning of Miss Legion Saturday night at 11:30. The winner of the election will receive an all-expense paid trip to Cuba; runner-up a diamond studded watch and each lady who has entered the contest and has been made eligible

Soviets Refuse To Yield To Peace Plan

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Soviet Russia wants a period of coexistence for her own purposes without giving up one of her big political weapons—her ability to make a surprise attack.

Rejection by Premier Bulganin of President Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection to eliminate the possibilities of surprise attack was expected.

The Russians made it clear at Geneva that their sweetness and light campaign represented no change of basic policy, and that they would do the things the world demands to achieve peace only when it furthers their own interests.

Russian Plan

Bulganin keeps referring to the Russian plan for disarmament as though it, too, contained a specific inspection clause. The trouble with that is it would be set up under the Security Council of the United Nations, where Russia could veto every move which interfered with her activities or interests.

The rejection of the blueprint plan is made in the friendly tone recently adopted by the Russian leaders, with praise for Eisenhower's attempt even while disagreeing with him.

Bulganin attempts to make the point that the Eisenhower plan does not cover American military bases around the world, without mentioning Russia's own in the satellites. He skips the uses of Red China in the Korean War which Russia sponsored.

To meet the world demand for deeds rather than words to prove her peaceful intent, Russia has produced two things. She went through, ten years late, with an Austrian treaty designed to start the ball rolling toward the period of relaxed tensions she now enjoys. She agreed to the Eisenhower atom-for-peace plan from which she will get important technological benefits.

Defiant on Issues

On the points in which the world is primarily interested, such as reunification of Germany and an end to the international Communist subversion campaign, she is unyielding and even defiant.

The primary result of the sweetness and light campaign to date, then, is a stalemate on major issues—a stalemate in an atmosphere which seems to be just what the Russians wanted.

This stalemate obviously is to be used by the Russians for their own purposes. One of the reasons for the interest of the Western Powers in holding the Big Four conference at Geneva was to find out what these purposes might be. No great progress was made. It is still the big question before the house.

Attorney John D. Faller, Jr. (top left) 41, was slain and Judge Mark E. Garber (right) was wounded before the husband, Percy Haines, could be subdued by a court reporter. Also shot were Mrs. Haines and another attorney. Faller had just successfully pleaded Mrs. Haines' case when the man went berserk.

Your Horoscope Today

FRIDAY, AUGUST 5

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A big improvement over the past few days, especially for home interests, written matters, tasks where mental alertness, smart judgment are required. Use sensible care in driving, however.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Friendly rays for practical activities, doing favors, seeking recognition for work or tasks well done. This can be a productive day, bringing unusual returns for effort expended.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—An inspiring, stimulating day—the kind you love, snappy folks enjoy and on which you get things done quickly, intelligently and pleasantly. Go forward, but be kind to health, nerves.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer)—A peak day, with your Moon and Mercury in most auspicious aspects. Big things, delicate matters and personal interests should all benefit by friendly stars. Achieve, but be careful, too.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo)—Excellent Sun and other planetary rays to lighten your day, lighten tasks, give you a boost generally. Make some time for rest.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo)—Take care of urgent matters first, then study new items on your agenda. Don't crowd yourself; rather try to finish uncompleted matters. Enjoy some rest and recreation.

September 21 to October 20 (Libra)—This can be a comfortably productive day, not a highly stimulating one depending on the demands of your position, family duties. Aspects home labor, take advantage of good prospects.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio)—Challenging and interesting influences but also tricky in spots. If you keep your head cool and are reasonable, you can achieve a great deal, possibly make new, advantageous connections.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter and other planets are in auspicious position now. The day promises much good for those who maintain a constructive, productive pace but who don't overdo or become easily irritated.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Wholesome prospects for this good day—especially if tasks are managed and allocated properly and sufficient time is given to advance planning. Avoid worry.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—This may not be an entirely easy day but if you are sharp and attentive you can certainly garner much of the good about. Several aspects favor both hard and easy tasks.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Similar influences to Scorpio and Capricorn now. Much is up to you, what your day requires, and how you fit things in. No need to rush or worry. Tomorrow offers new opportunity. Be serene.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately interesting, gay, sometimes full of happy nonsense, also deeply sensitive and intelligent. Often I have found Leaders the fanatics of the world: natural, delightful folk. You make very capable leaders in business or military fields, are courageous, daring and roundly capable and resourceful. All this, of course, if you are living true to your finer self. It is important to your health, happiness and achievement that you direct, especially carefully, such a desire for rich foods and stimulating beverages.

Discount Rate Boost Halts Market Rise

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—Banks tightened the reins on credit to check inflation, and the stock market today was jostled sharply lower from its near-record peaks.

The jolt to the market was taken in stride without the slightest urgency in selling developing during the session.

Yesterday after the close and today the federal reserve banks in most areas of the country raised their discount rates, the amount they charged member banks for lending them money. At the same time, New York City banks increased their charges for loans to business. The rates are among the highest of the past two decades.

The action raised a great symbol of caution before Wall Street eyes. It means "go slow." And today that's what the market did.

Substantial Loss

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $2.40 at $171.60. It was at a record high of $177.00 last week. The fall was the heaviest in a month. The industrial component was down $3.80, railroads lost $2.10, and utilities were off 40 cents.

The list wasn't very broad with 1,195 individual issues traded, although it was well ahead of yesterday's 1,158 issues. There were only 191 gainers in the list while 823 stocks declined. Eighteen new highs for the year were touched and 28 new lows, the first time in many weeks that lows outnumbered highs.

Volume was 2,210,000 as against 2,190,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was slightly higher. Both totals are well below the daily average so far this year.

Standard Off 6

Standard Oil (NJ) dropped 6 points at 134 1/2 after directors declared a dividend of $1.25, the same as in the two previous quarters. No mention was made of splitting the stock.

Government bonds trading over the counter lost ground early in the day and then rallied to close higher. They have been depressed in recent days in response to gradually higher interest rates. The bond market was lower.
